

Training-Workshop on Future-Proof and Future-Ready Scientific Writing for High-Impact Journal Publications

March 26-28, 2026

Selah Pods Hotel, Pasay City, Philippines

Requiring a balance between ethical, and enduring scholarly principles with responsiveness and adaptability to research innovation, future-proof and future-ready scientific writing answers to the rapidly evolving scholarly ecosystem exacerbated by the rise of Generative AI. Future-proofing refers to the creation of enduring, high-quality research outputs that remain relevant as the field advances, while future-readiness involves the proactive adoption of emerging technologies and shifting editorial standards. Researchers of today must be able to integrate technology without compromising their scholarly voice. While digital tools can support language refinement, data visualization, and literature synthesis, high-impact journals increasingly scrutinize originality, argument coherence, and critical insight; qualities which can never be automated. To navigate this, researchers must balance traditional clarity with modern digital literacy, ensuring their work is both human-readable and machine-optimized. In an era defined by rapid technological changes, open science movements, and an increasingly competitive academic publishing culture, how can researchers write a future-proof and future-ready scholarly work which can be published in high-impact journals?

Equipping researchers with skills in a rapidly changing research landscape, the Asian Society of Teachers for Research Inc. invites you to the Training-Workshop on Future-Proof and Future-Ready Scientific Writing for High-Impact Journal Publications on March 26-28, 2026 (9:00 am -5:00 pm) at the Selah Pods Hotel, Pasay City, Philippines.

OBJECTIVES OF THE TRAINING-WORKSHOP:

- To leverage emerging technologies including Generative AI and advanced digital research tools, across the scientific writing and publication process;
- To provide expert guidance on producing research manuscripts that align with the evolving standards, rigor, and impact criteria of high-impact, indexed journals; and
- To develop skills in anticipating future research trends, ethical considerations, and publication challenges, that are both future-proof and future-ready with the responsible use of Generative AI.
